HONEYCOMB BLINDS

Honeycomb blinds are excellent insulation. Their honeycomb construction traps the air inside, guarding against both heat and cold. Double and triple-cell shades add even higher levels of insulation. This can mean lower energy bills all year round!

Honeycomb blinds also retract into a small, neat stack when raised, allowing you to preserve your view. When lowered, cellular shades offer privacy by blocking the view of your home from the outside.

Honeycomb blinds also feature light-diffusing capabilities.

Light-filtering cellular shades fill the room with a soft, warm glow, while double-cell and darker-colored shades can block more light. A blackout shade can completely darken the room.

If there are gaps between your shade and the wall or window frame, optional light blockers can be added to achieve total darkness.
